

RECEIVED

JAN 11 2024

Background

Many years of working in electronics building security systems for prisons, nuclear plants and government installations, starting as a solderer and working up to a troubleshooter both in house and out in the field.

Over the last 30 years I've been in the computer business building and troubleshooting computer problems and finishing my career working in cyber security allowing me to teach people how to not be a victim of identity theft.